Making the presentation was Jim MacKenzie, Concord Ruritan Club program chairman and member of the Awards Committee.

A native of Blacksburg, Va., Henderson is a retired metallurgist from the Lynchburg Foundry. He is an active member of the New Concord Presbyterian Church where he serves as a Sunday School teacher and elder. He is married to the former Sarah Evans of Concord. They are the parents of six children and 18 grandchildren.

Workshops set on zoning here

A series of workshops on the pros and cons of zoning for Appomattox County will be held this month prior to the Nov. 6 referendum on zoning.

The four workshops, sponsored by the Appomattox County Board of Supervisors and the Appomattox County Planning Commission will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Oct. 16, at the county courthouse for the Southside District; on Oct. 22 at Oakville School for the Stonewall District; on Oct. 23 at the Pamplin School Building, now Brandy Ann Manufacturing; and on Oct. 29 at the courthouse for the Cloverhill District.

The advisory referendum wording on the Nov. 6 ballot asks, "Shall Appomattox County have a zoning ordinance?"

"We want to know how the citizens feel about zoning," said Sam Waddell, planning commission chairman.

"Although the Planning Commission has been working on a draft zoning ordinance for the past two years at the direction of the board of supervisors, neither board wants to push zoning on the people of Appomattox County," Waddell said.

In discussing the pros and cons of zoning at a joint meeting last week of the supervisors, Planning Commission and members of Appomattox and Pamplin town councils, Supervisor Franklin Vaughan said, "I don't want them to change their minds, I just want them to understand it."

"The whole thing about zoning is it protects surrounding property owners," said Appomattox Mayor Ronald C. Spiggle. "But in order to get that protection you give up some of your say on what you can do with your land," he added.

Planning Commission Chairman Waddell explained the decision on whether a county will have zoning is usually left solely in the hands of the board of supervisors.

"Because the supervisors felt it was important for all citizens of Appomattox County to help make the decision about zoning, they asked the General Assembly to pass legislation enabling Appomattox County to have the question on this November's ballot;" Waddell continued.

Waddell added that if a majority of voters vote yes in favor of zoning, the board of supervisors will be required to pass some sort of zoning ordinance. If the majority vote no, the board could still decide to enact a zoning ordinance, after holding public hearings.

"When you vote on the Nov. 6 ballot, you will be giving guidance to the board of supervisors. You will not be voting on a specific ordinance," Waddell concluded.

Leftwich takes contest

Wayne Leftwich of Madison Heights won last week's Times-Virginian football contest on a three-way tiebreaker in which two other contestants shared second-place honors.

Leftwich, Ron Guill and Jim Bollinger each missed accurately predicting the outcomes of only two of the games listed in the contest. In the tiebreaker, where contestants attempt to predict the exact score of two of the contest games, Leftwich came closest to the actual scores of the games, the Appomattox-Jefferson Forest contest, and the U.Va. - VPI game.

Bollinger's and Guill's predictions for both games were identical, so they will share the second-place prize of $10.

Leftwich, as the contest winner, will receive $20 from the newspaper and the contest sponsors.

The contest continues this week, in the sports section of the Times-Virginian.

Still under investigation

Arrest made in death

Buddy Lynn Loren of Route 1, Pembrooke, Va. was arrested by Giles County sheriff's deputies and state police at his home at approximately 4 p.m. on Tuesday, Sept. 11 and charged with murder in the June 7 shooting death of Suzanne H. Morrow, an Appomattox woman.

At the time Morrow's body was found in a cabin in Virginia 613 near Mountain Lake Hotel, authorities believed she had taken her own life.

The picture changed when sufficient evidence was gathered during the investigation for Loren to be charged with her murder, according to a spokesman for the Giles County Sheriff's Department.

Morrow's home address was given as Appomattox, where she was a 1972 honor graduate of Appomattox High School. She had been staying at the cabin in the weeks before her death.

Loren, 26, reported the woman's death to Giles County Sheriff's Department at about 4 a.m. the morning of her death on June 7.

Morrow and Loren met through her family members, some of whom reside in the Pembrooke area. Loren had moved to the mountain approximately one year ago from Texas with Everette Hendrix, a brother to the murdered woman.

No motive has been established for the alleged crime. Investigation is still underway.

Train to visit Festival

Visitors to the Historic Railroad Festival in Appomattox will have an opportunity to learn something of the history and modern sides of railroading on Oct. 13.

Both the "Best Friend of Charleston"-Norfolk Southern's colorful train from the past-and the Norfolk Southern Exhibit Car will be on display that Saturday.

The Exhibit Car, with many new displays, including a working model train powered by solar energy, will be open to visitors from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. In the car, slide shows, dioramas, scale and working models depict Norfolk Southern's rail operations, detection of overheated wheel bearings, and many other facets of modern railroading. A display on solar energy show how Norfolk Southern's railroads harness the sun's rays to meet varied energy needs.

The "Best Friend" consists of steam engine, tender and two open coaches. It was built in 1928 from the plans of the original "Best Friend," which inaugurated regular steam railroad passenger service on December 25, 1830. It will give brief rides at no charge from noon to 4 p.m. Oct. 13

Between 1970 and 1983, the "Best Friend" was viewed by almost 5 million people while over 430,000 rode behind the famous replica.

Its appearances have included a number of functions connected with the 1970 South Carolina Tricentennial and the 1976 United States Bicentennial celebrations and such events as the Presidential Inaugural parade in 1977.

Since 1971, the Exhibit Car has visited more than 250 cities and been viewed by over a third of a million people.

Greetings, gentle readers, to you . . . and to October. On our calendar it is the tenth month, but the Latin word means eight. Somewhere along the line someone slipped up. Thing for us to avoid is slipping up, and make it the best. Many feel Nature is at its best in October. A riot of color. Virginia is famous for its October scenes, sweeping eastward from the mountains through the Piedmont to the Bay. Cooler weather ahead. Folklore says that the winter will have as many snows as the date of the day of the month when the first snow falls. I'm not ready.

Baseball's World Series is around the corner, but we are still talking football. Especially the big one, Univ. of Virginia winning over Va. Tech, at Blacksburg, and the Virginia Tech Miller foot race in Lynchburg. These events brought business to Appomattox, especially eating places. I was at a local restaurant Saturday when some people from Richmond came by, participants in the run. Appomattox's Kevin Ferguson, did some record-breaking punting for Virginia. ACHS lost to Jefferson Forest, but faces the rest of the schedule "with hope that springs eternal."

My thanks to friend Thomas M. Richardson for bringing me a copy of the Wilmington, N.C. Morning News, containing pictures and accounts of Hurricane Diana's brush in along the Carolina coast. I want no part of a hurricane. Mr. Richardson's daughter, Cynthia, lives near Wilmington and Thomas was visiting.

From my "history notepad." So many kings had the same name, they became known by numbers, such as Louis XIV. But there's more. In 918 there was a "Charles the Simple." Also during the Middle Ages, Henry the Fowler, Charles the Bald, and Charles the Fat.

Senior citizens should be proud of their age. It is noteworthy that there are five million in the United States who are over eighty years of age. My goal is to reach the year 2000.

Have a dogwood tree in my rear yard and brought in some red berries from same. Neat.

Met up with my longtime friend, Jim Woody in a local store. Looked great.

Good business to attempt to read something that is way over your head. In that spirit, I am mired up to my ears in Immanuel Kant's Critique of Pure Reason. The great German scholar was born in 1724 and never traveled more than 7 miles from his birthplace, yet is ranked among the top philosophers.

Saw a list of forty seasonal Festivals scheduled in Virginia. Wow. Do not overlook Appomattox Railroad Festival. Thanks for reading and seeya around.
